Fear Outbreak In Limerick As Rebels Arrive

Appearance of Irish Republican Troops Brings Fear of 3-faction Clash

FREE STATE FIGHT IS ON Griffith and Collins Urge Ratification at Massmeetings
—Attack De Valera

By United Press Leased Wire.
Limerick. — Armed troops of three opposing factions in Ireland were in possession of different parts of the city Monday and fears of an outbreak kept citizens in a state of anxiety.

Rebellious Irish republican army troops, numbering between 300 and 400, entered Limerick Sunday and commandeered the leading hotels and railway station. It was announced they had come to enforce the recent proclamation of the mid-Limerick brigade of the I. R. A. repudiating the authority of the free state and pledging allegiance to the republic.

One hundred and forty troops of the free state, under direction of the provisional government, were here
to take over the military barracks, which a considerable force of British troops and auxiliaries was preparing to evacuate.

PATROL STREETS
With the advent of the rebels, the British commander ordered out his four armored cars and sent troops to patrol the streets in event of trouble.
The free state troops patrolled in the neighborhood of their billets but made no effort to interfere with the general policing of the town.

Beyond selling the hotels for use as billets, the rebellious I. R. A. intruders made no hostile move. It was believed their intention was to attempt to take control of the town soon as the British evacuated.
The British, it was reported, were inclined to consider their occupation and let the opposing Irish factions decide the issue between themselves but the British commander announced he would be responsible for order until that time. The free state troops who not fraternizing, have been on good terms with the retreating British, but the newcomers were some of the wild lads from Cork, Clare, and Limerick counties who have been among the most savage fighters against "enemy occupation."

SEEK VOTERS' SUPPORT
Dublin.—The fight for the free state was in full swing Monday. Inaugurated at two minister mass meetings Sunday at which Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins made stirring speeches, the campaign to win support of the electorate of Ireland for the treaty will extend to every part of the country until the elections in June. Strong attacks upon Eamon De Valera and his irreconcilable followers marked the opening of the campaign. Collins charged the De Valerites dropped their ideal of a republic last July while British troops were in Ireland and now bravely revived the cry of secession. Griffith declared that for the first time in 100 years British had recognized the nationhood of Ireland.

LLOYD GEORGE IS ILL; WON'T QUIT

English Premier Will Take Rest
—Turn in Events Will Keep Him in Office

By United Press Leased Wire.
London. — Premier Lloyd George,
weary from the political crisis of last week, during which he threatened to resign, was suffering Monday from an attack of bronchial catarrh, and is going to Crieff, Wales, Tuesday or Wednesday, for a fortnight's holiday.

Definite announcement of the premier's decision not to resign at the present time, however, will be made by Arthur J. Balfour Tuesday, it was understood Monday.
Private conferences between the prime minister, who returned unexpectedly from his country estate, and conservative leaders at No. 10 Downing street, Sunday night, took such a turn it was learned that Balfour can formally announce Lloyd George's withdrawal of his resignation threat.
Unless the "intrigues" as the premier called them of Sir George Younger and his "die hard" faction of ultra-conservatives are repeated, Lloyd George has consented to remain at the helm through the difficult period of the Genoa economic conference and until the general election which he will probably call for next fall.

Want Mathilde To Break Troth With Max Oser

By United Press Leased Wire.
Chicago. — Fowler and Muriel Mc-Cormick Monday attempted to dissuade Mathilde, from her announced intention of marrying Max Oser, Swiss livery stable proprietor.
The brother and sister visited Matthilde at the home of Cyrus McCormick, chairman of the board of the International Harvester company with whom Harold F. McCormick has been making his home since his wife, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, obtained a divorce.
The visit by Muriel and Fowler was believed to be in accordance with the plan of the Rockefeller branch of the family to win Mathilde away from her Swiss fiance.

MAY TAKE WEEKS TO PICK JURY FOR TRIAL OF SMALL

Conspiracy Case Gets Under Way Monday at Court in Waukegan, Ill.

By United Press Leased Wire.
Waukegan, Ill. — Governor Len Small faced trial Monday on charges of conspiracy to embezzle state funds.
Small, the prosecution alleged, conspired to juggle millions in state funds
in order to "pocket" interest that should have been turned into the exchequer of Illinois.
It is alleged that Small conspired with Lieut. Gov. Fred
Sterling and Verne
Curtis, Grant Park,
to steal the state's
cash.

Millions were taken from the state
treasury, the prosecution will seek to prove, and loaned to the Grant Park State bank, of which Curtis is head, at two per cent interest.
Curtis, according to the indictment,
then loaned the money to Chicago packers at from 5 to 8 1/2 per cent. The difference in interest was to be kept by the three, according to the conspiracy allegations.
Fifty veniremen reported for jury duty Monday. C. C. LeFors, Small's chief counsel, and Fred Mortimer, chief prosecutor agreed it would take several weeks to choose a jury and that the trial would perhaps last nearly two months.

FALL AND WALLACE IN SERIOUS SPLIT

Friction in Harding's Cabinet Follows Break on Alaskan Policy

By United Press Leased Wire.
Washington.—The first serious friction in President Harding's cabinet has arisen between Secretary of the Interior Fall and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. The dispute centers around the governmental policy for development of Alaska and the proposed transfer under a governmental reorganization of the forestry service from the department of agriculture to the department of the interior.

Although both Fall and Wallace Monday refused to comment on the situation the breach is so serious according to reliable information that one or the other may resign.
Fall, it became known, has presented in a letter to a friend in congress that the department of agriculture, in its opposition to his policy for developing of Alaska and to the transfer of the forestry service, is engaging in personal propaganda against him. The letter indicates that he has carried his complaint to President Harding. The charge is denied by Wallace's assistants.

LITTLE CHUTE FORMING TROOP OF BOY SCOUTS

Chute Sunday when plans were discussed. Leigh Hooley represented the Washington.—One year of Warren Harding as president of the United States.

The partisan eye sees only "wonderful achievement" or "terrible failure" as the case may be. Opinion outside of Washington cannot be accurately measured from here. Opinion inside Washington cannot be determined from the propaganda issued from both political headquarters for the purpose is either to create a good or bad impression.

In the privacy of conversations not meant for public quotation, when the pad and pencil isn't visible and the numerous legislators are really telling what they honestly believe, true criticism and estimates are made of the Harding administration. This correspondent will endeavor to reflect that consensus of opinion here.

VIEWERS DIFFER

The Republican view, of course, differs from the Democratic. Nevertheless the Democratic will concede that there were many good things done by the Harding administration and the Republicans will privately admit that some of the things done and undone are good.

Take the Republican introspection first. President Harding is looked upon as a man who has tried to play ball in the regular Republican army way. His embarrassments of section issues such as the agricultural bloc raised up, admitted the have not tried to interfere in the exercise by congress of its prerogatives. He has refused again and again to endorse movements in congress looking toward the extravagant expenditure of money. He has made a reputation for himself as a budget maker. He has started the wheel-barrow of a business administration. The Republicans will differ as to the amount of leadership Mr. Harding has shown in handling congress. Many will say he hasn't led enough, that he has hesitated and lost ground by so doing. Others say he has not started in making decisions.
All will agree that in summing the years' conference he achieved something big. As to his cabinet, some members have come up to expectations, some have not. But on the whole the Republican view is that President Harding has made a big thing of the situation which confronted him when he came into power and that he has the confidence of the country because he intends to do more.

GOOD POLITICS
Take the Democratic view. Wherever fair minded Democrats gather the arms conference is admitted to have been a valuable political asset for Mr. Harding. It is too early to say what the final verdict on the four-year pact or "alliance," as the Democrats call it, will be. Curiously enough those who praise Mr. Harding for calling the conference see in the act a sequel to Woodrow Wilson's efforts at international cooperation.
Criticism of the Harding administration on domestic issues is confined to no single subject. The Democrats privately think and publicly say the last tax bill was a monstrosity. They point to the deficit in the budget as the answer to the question of national economy and they fear that the Republicans are going to erect a high tariff wall that will cripple foreign trade.
The Democrats don't believe the economic situation would have been half as bad throughout the United States if cooperation with Europe either through the league of nations or membership on the reparations commission could have been accomplished during the past year. Mr. Harding himself recently took occasion to write Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, Republican, his regret that congress had tied his hands and prevented American membership on the reparations commission.

ASK U. S. FOR CUT OF TENTH IN RAIL WAGE

Plea of Unions for 12 Per Cent Increase Bobs Up at Same Time

By United Press Leased Wire.
Chicago.—Demand by railroads for an additional 10 per cent cut in wages of more than 1,000,000 men was considered Monday by the United States railroad labor board.

The board at the same time heard claims by shop crafts that they were entitled to a 12 per cent increase.

All classes of railroad men are affected by the petition for a wage cut except yard and train service men.
They are negotiating directly with the employers.

The railroads are requesting restoration of practically the same wage scale as was effective prior to creation of the railroad labor board in 1920.
The roads will be given five days to present arguments sustaining their contention that wages should be reduced.

In circles close to the railroad board here, it was expected that at the conclusion of the hearings the board will cut wages of all railroad labor except the train service brotherhoods and the yard men approximately 10 per cent.
This would mean a total yearly drop of more than $100,000,000 in the pay envelopes of the railroad men.

TONG WAR NETS ONE LIFE IN VICE DEN

Chicago. — Tong war flared up in Chicago's Chinatown Monday, resulting in the killing of one and wounding of two others.

The victims were members of the Hip Slings. A man alleged to be a member of the On Leongs entered a basement gambling house and shot rietor and wounded Tom Lee and Sam Lee.

Police believe failure by the gambling house proprietor to pay tribute to the On Leongs, the strongest tong, caused the shooting.

LEGION WILL GET RECORD OF EVERY VETERAN OF WAR

Careful Census to Determine Needs of Service Men is to Be Taken

A record of every man or woman who served in the World War is to be obtained by the American legion through a service drive to be launched May 1. The project was announced and explained fully at the state department conference in Lawrence Memorial chapel Saturday by Austin A. Petersen, state adjutant and finance officer.

Questionnaires are to be provided and local post which will be used in a house-to-house canvass of every home in every county. Each person's service record will be compiled, including his participation in the war and will give full details of injuries, illness, loss of vocation or disadvantage suffered.

"The idea," said Mr. Petersen, "is to obtain an accurate census of every service man and woman in the United States, who and where they are, what help is needed and how the American legion can be of service."

The idea was originated by Hanford MacNider, national commander who tried the plan with success in Iowa. Every state now is to conduct this census. It is believed the personal contact will help to strengthen the legion and that assistance can be given many disabled men needing aid. Folders describing the purpose and work of the American legion are to be presented each person.

Executive committees will have charge in their respective congressional districts, and they in turn will work through county chairmen.

HAD MORE ROOMS THAN WERE NEEDED

Generosity of Appleton People Was Appreciated by Legion Committees

Many of the homes opened to delegates attending the American Legion conference here Saturday and Sunday were not needed when it was found Saturday that the homes could accommodate many more than announced previously.

"The people of Appleton were so responsive that we could have housed another 400 men if they came, so great was the number of rooms offered up," said Edwin P. Schommer, chairman of the entertainment committee for the conference. "The committee is grateful for this splendid spirit of cooperation."

All homes which were not used and where telephones were in service were notified that the rooms were not needed, but a number of telephones were out of order and all therefore could not be informed.

a special meeting of the common council for 7:30 Monday evening in the city hall to discuss engaging a

is to be a public hearing to which every person interested in saving the

The conservation committee has suggested to the mayor that the city engage a tree expert and he has decided to submit the matter to the council. The meeting tonight is to be a hearing on the suggestion.

Justice Demands Aid For Veterans, Judge Landis Says

Delivering his first public address since he resigned from the Federal bench, Judge K. M. Landis Sunday morning in Lawrence Memorial chapel answered criticisms for leaving the judicial position to devote all his time to his duties as commissioner of baseball.

"Some years ago I assumed a debt," said Judge Landis, "and in one way and another I have accumulated other obligations. Finally I came to the conclusion that even if I resigned from the bench I would have resigned from the bench back in 1917 but the war came on and it was my duty to retain the place.
When I considered that if death would come to me it would be necessary to pass the hat to pay funeral expenses and my family would be dependent on the mercy of society, I determined that I would leave the federal bench."

"The offer came to me to administer the affairs of baseball, which I consider one of the greatest things in America, and my mind was hospitable to the idea. I accepted the place, and consider it well worth a man's time to keep straight this great American institution and national pastime."

Noted Jurist Delivers Stirring Appeal for Soldiers' Bonus Before Immense Crowd in Lawrence Chapel.

Judge Kennesaw Mountain Landis is firmly in favor of a bonus for veterans of the World war. Speaking to more than 1,300 persons in Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday morning, Judge Landis said that the bonus is a just thing and that the legion is a great organization. He presented arguments, supported by incidents that have come to his attention, that convinced him that his auditors in support
of measures to re-
pay soldiers for
the part they took in the great war.

LANDIS. Judge Landis was given a ovation as he arose to speak. Lawrence Memorial chapel was crowded with persons in the audience came to their feet as the jurist walked to the front of the platform. Judge Landis raised his hand for silence and cut short the demonstration. Without spending time on preliminary oratory or explanations he began his address. He talked in a conversational tone but his voice carried to all parts of the auditorium. He was continually on the move around the rostrum, sometimes emphasizing his remarks with gestures and shakings of his head that brought his mop of snow white hair tumbling down over his forehead and at other times leaning over the pulpit to drive home his points.

"The organization that brought me here to speak today," said Judge Landis, "is an organization without which it would be impossible for us to visualize the future of America and I want to tell you a few things about this organization."

HOW IT STARTED

"Five years ago close to 100,000,000 of us got together and made up our minds that we would have war. We were not hunting war and did not make up our minds to fight until we had been driven into a corner. Then

HORTONVILLE ASKS COUNTY ROAD AID

In its session which opens Tuesday, the county board will be asked by the town of Hortonville for an appropriation of $1,275 to pay the cost of graveling a secondary highway this spring.

The road for which the improvement is desired extends north from the village of Hortonville to the Wolf river and was graded last summer and town officials now declare that unless it is graveled as soon as possible it will be impassable during wet weather.

The town itself has already raised $850 for this purpose and desires to avail itself of the state law which provides that town and county may jointly pay for road improvement by appropriations on a 40-60 per cent basis. If the town's appropriation is met, $2,125 will be available to pay for graveling the road.

ANTI-CAPITALIST WORLD LABOR BODY IS SOVIET SCHEME

Third Internationale Wants to Tie Hand of Russian With U. S. Worker

By United Press Leased Wire.
Moscow. — A gigantic new workers' international, forming a united labor front in all lands, is planned by soviet leaders here.

The executive committee of the Third Internationale adjourned Sunday night after deciding to relinquish the organization's self-proclaimed leadership of worldwide socialism.
The committee is to have workers everywhere, no matter how communist, present a solid front to capitalism.

This action of the Russians reveals the extent of the swing toward the right of Trotsky, Zinovieff and other leftists. These recent speeches have been strikingly minus their old challenge and have counseled moderation. The willingness of the Third Internationale to give up leadership and take a subordinate place in the new order of labor is considered a political move designed to bring Russian workers and leaders into contact with labor organizations of the world, particularly, if possible, the United States.

SANDS SOUGHT AS AUTHOR OF LETTER

Vengeance for Taylor's Scorn

in "Confession"

By United Press Leased Wire.
New York. — A man hunt, spread-extending to ships at sea within radio distance of the coast, was on Monday for Edward F. Sands, suspected slayer of William D. Taylor.

Search was asked by Los Angeles authorities following receipt of a written "confession" sent from a Connecticut town. It is believed that the handwriting is that of Sands.

The writer of the letter said he was an avenging husband and that he killed Taylor because the movie director had scorned her.

G. O. P. PREDICTS BONUS IN 2 WEEKS

BACK CLAIMS OF BAD PRACTICE IN VETERAN BUREAU

Committee Finds Reason for Inquiry in Methods of Chicago Office

Charges made from the floor at the American legion conference here Saturday by Arthur Verba, adjutant of post No. 1, Milwaukee that conditions in the eighth district of the United States Veterans Bureau at Chicago were such that an investigation should be made, were partially substantiated in the report of the special grievance committee which heard Mr. Verba's statements.

Mr. Verba, cooperating with the Milwaukee Red Cross chapter, spent eight months gathering facts on which he based his complaints. He had numerous reports showing where he believed claims had been disallowed without inquiry into the facts of the case, and others where it was alleged that the treatment was negligent or disbarred when the bureau was asked for aid.

The report of the committee consisting of O. W. Roite, Milwaukee, chairman, O. K. Anderson, Superior, and C. S. Lance, Kenosha, was referred to the state executive committee for further action. It voiced a protest against practices of the eighth district board of appeals in disallowing claims for training under the second classification. The decisions clearly demonstrated, the report said, that the board "was not acquainted with the conditions surrounding men who labor with their hands as well as those who work with their brains."

The report also charged that this board did not pay the attention it should to affidavits rendered. Protest was voiced for the lack of courtesy said to be displayed by the board of appeals to representatives of claimants.

The medical rating board also came in for its share of panning when the report protested against the action of the board in questioning medical reports and statements made by sub-district examiners, and for questioning affidavits of civilian doctors.

LAWRENCE DEBATES HERE ON FRIDAY

Many employers and working men in Appleton have already become interested in the debate which will take place in Lawrence Memorial chapel at 7 o'clock Friday evening when the Lawrence affirmative team meets the All on negative team on the question, "Resolved: That the closed shop in industry is justifiable." The question has a broader appeal than the ordinary miller debate and townspeople who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

The men who will represent Lawrence are either Thor Bruce of Marinette or Dan Hart of Neenah as the first speaker. Earl Huntinghame and Alfred Root, Appleton. The Lawrence negative team will die here at Cornell college, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, on the same night. The men who will make the trip are Karl Trever, Appleton; Edmond Tink, Merrill, and Karl Windesheim, Kenosha. Prof. F. W. Orr will accompany the negative team.

With the music memory contest almost at an end, interest among the children in seventh and eighth grades is running high. Evidence of the progress made by the students is demonstrated every Saturday morning when more than 60 children assemble at Appleton Women's clubroom for the review period at each selection is played for the children, they are asked to identify it and tell something of the composer and the piece. The number of children who recognize a selection at the first bars of the music is remarkable.

Arrangements now are being completed for the preliminary contests which will be held in the school on Wednesday, March 22. The final contest will be held on Monday, March 27.

PHONE SERVICE TIED UP FOR 8 HOURS BY FIRE

Firemen Assist Telephone Linemen Repair Damage to Switch Box

Long distance service north and south out of Appleton received an other setback on top of all the troubles of the recent storm when broken electric power wires falling on the office cable pole just outside the Wisconsin Telephone company's office caused a fire about 11 o'clock Saturday night.

Firemen who remained at the scene for hours and linemen who worked all Saturday night were responsible for restoration of service by 7 o'clock Sunday morning over a temporary cable which had been made during the night.

In the cable box which burned out were 160 wires leading from the Appleton exchange. Forty were copper toll wires which connected the office with long distance circuits to a number of cities.

Firemen used chemicals to extinguish the electric blaze and then gave the linemen assistance by playing powerful search lights of the apparatus on the poles and by providing ladders. The repair work kept up all night and the cables was out of service only about eight hours.

MAKING PROGRESS IN BOOMING BIBLE

"Pussfooting, Past and Present" was the subject of an address given by Dr. P. M. Ingler at a mass meeting for men Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. Dr. Ingler will speak again next Sunday, taking for his subject, "The End of an Imperfect Day."

Following the mass meeting members of the committee in charge of the campaign to increase the membership of men's Bible classes in the eight Appleton cooperating churches to 500 by Easter held a meeting. Each class reported good results from the letters sent out last week inviting men to attend classes Sunday.

It was decided to hold a supper for all members of the Bible classes in the Y. M. C. A. banquet rooms during the week commencing March 19. A campaign button was adopted and each class was requested to organize groups of men to seek new members.

Legion Officers Of State Discuss Plans For Improving Work

Interesting Discussions at Annual Conference of Legion Leaders

first and the man's family second in importance.

Some straight from the shoulder advice on ways to live up a post and make it the biggest thing in a community was given by Charles C. Baker, Appleton, former commander of Oney Johnston post, in the conference on post organization and membership. Creating pride in the post throughout the community was essential, he said, and explained the importance of a good organization, strong committee and a good adjutant. "To whom the commander could pass the buck," then took charge as chairman.

F. Ryan Duffy waxed warm on the subject of a soldier bonus when he took up the matter of legion legislation. He showed how the legion had to put to rout the diatribe methods of congress and the meager facilities for soldier relief and not only wrote laws that were big enough, and with large enough appropriations to do what the country ought to do, but backed them up so congress had to enact them.

FIGHT SERVICE MEN

Mr. Duffy said there were large and powerful influences in Washington that haven't the service men's welfare at heart. Harding, he said, had grouped about him a set of advisers who made it appear that the former service man was bent on running the government. He described how the wealthy interests of the east feared an invasion and gave the men in the service, in the shipyards and elsewhere every thing they wanted if they would go and fight. Now, after the service man gave up all, they can't see where adjusted compensation is due. Mr. Duffy announced that the Wisconsin department would have a state legislative committee soon.

Oswald K. Anderson, Superior, closed the discussions telling how his post raised money by going into big ventures, and explained how interest and membership grew as a result. Men from the floor then persisted in "telling one better than that," much to the amusement of the assemblage.

DISCUSS ATHLETICS

Athletics as a legion activity then was taken up with Grover L. Broadford, Mondak, in charge. He said the legion should capitalize on the growing interest in all kinds of athletics. The chairman then had a busy time trying to keep order, for the subject of professionalism in athletics came up. The evil of it, the success of its use in some posts, its failure in others and other phases

OPPOSITION TO BONUS FADES AS TAX IS REPEALED

Minnesota Legion Commander Says Business Will Cease to Fight Aid

"Now that the big business interests of the country have succeeded in securing a repeal of the excess profits tax and the other special taxes the service men are certain of getting adjusted compensation. These special taxes were the big impediment to a national compensation measure. Having gotten these out of the way, the burden of compensation must be put on the people and not on the men who 'cleaned up' out of this war. That's why the passage of a compensation bill will not be delayed."

These were among the statements made by Dr. A. A. VanDyke of St. Paul, legion commander of the department of Minnesota, in addressing 450 legionnaires at the convention banquet in Armory G Saturday night.

Edward J. Edwards, department commander of Wisconsin, was the toastmaster. Short talks were made by Alvin M. Owsley, chairman of the national Americanization bureau of the legion; Col. G. R. Greene of the Organized Reserves of Milwaukee; C. W. Spofford, of Chicago, secretary of the United States Veterans' bureau for this district; Mrs. William H. Cudworth of Milwaukee, national vice commander of the American Legion auxiliary; Miss Irma Johnson of Wisconsin Rapids and Mrs. Frank E. Wilson of Eau Claire, commander of the Wisconsin American Legion auxiliary.

Vocal selections were sung by Mrs. J. T. Quinn, George Mechelson and Mrs. Eleanor Berger. Miles McNally led the singing of a stanza of "America" at the close of the program. Mrs. Eric Lindberg, Miss Munger and Miss Lillian Braden played the accompaniments. Harry W. Oakes gave some clever impersonation sketches which created much merriment. Music during the dinner was provided by the Oney Johnson legion post orchestra.

CROSS SECTION OF U. S.
"The legion to me is a big thing, a great thing," Dr. VanDyke said. It is, either the greatest blessing that could have come to a war-weakened nation or the greatest humbug inflicted on a war stricken world. Which of these it is, is for ourselves to decide. We represent a cross section of the people of the United States. We have no politics, no class and no creed because we represent all political parties, all classes and all creeds."

"What can we do to make this a better country to live in? We can strive to live unselfishly, and to turn hate into love. It takes a big man to give 40, 50, or 60 years of life for his country, by living unselfishly. As the American legion we have a big program. First our duty is to care for the disabled who are still fighting this war. Government 'red tape' is an enemy of the disabled of the legion. Because of this the responsibility of giving immediate aid to needy sick and wounded men devolves upon our shoulders. We cannot wait for the government to act but we must provide care for these men ourselves. We have done that at the Mayo hospital in Rochester, Minn. We don't ask a man to prove every detail of his condition over a long period of time. All we ask is 'Did you serve?' If you did, have your legion post certify to that. Then come to us. Last year we took care of 5,000 service men in this way. Only 22 per cent of them were from Minnesota, 12 per cent were from Wisconsin and many other states were represented."

ADJUST HUMAN RIGHTS
"The next thing on our program is the matter of adjusted compensation. Compensation is different from bonus. Bonus is a gratuity. Compensation is what is owed. It is not for us to say how this money shall be raised any more than for us to say how the government shall pay any other bill. We will never put our patriotism on the block. The motives which moved us to fight for our country are priceless and cannot be bought."
"During the last two years the government has paid $3,000,000,000 for adjusting property rights. Why not adjust human rights likewise? Every government employee for the war period has had his compensation adjusted save the soldier. This will cost the government cannot afford it. I tell you they lie. In the terms of American money England has paid her soldiers $340, France, $260, Australia, $740, Canada, $420. Italy has given her army compensation. Even poor defeated Germany has managed to scrape upon an average of $70 each for her soldiers. Were her money values at normal this would amount to $2,000. We can adjust matters with the railroads by a $3,000,000,000 appropriation but why cannot we adjust with the soldiers?"

BURDEN ON PEOPLE
"If the excess profits tax, the surtax and other taxes had not been taken off they would have paid the compensation. With these taken off the burden of compensation must be put on the people and not on the men who cleaned up out of this war. We will get adjusted compensation now because this impediment has been removed. The government adjusted the compensation of men who were getting $10 a day making munitions during the war. Why not adjust compensation for the men who were willing to stop bullets at $1 a day?"

"Our next duty is to the army that stayed at home. During the last war the army at home was wonderful. Russia had no such army and she failed. We, too, may now join the army at home, fighting alongside it. The trouble with our country now is that selfishness crept in and pushed out the spirit of the war. We can do much to restore the spirit of unselfishness. As we led in war so must we lead in peace. We must live not for selfish gain but for the welfare of mankind."

TRANSFORMER ON TOP OF POLE CATCHES FIRE

A short circuit in a transformer on a telephone pole at Superior and Washington sts. about 11 o'clock Saturday night started a blaze and the fire department was called. The department answered with complete apparatus. Because the fire was at the top of the pole and above the transformer it was hard to get at and was extinguished with difficulty.

out on the big job of "Americanizing America was touched upon by Mr. Owsley. "One of the first things we learned in the Americanization bureau," Mr. Owsley said, "was that we would have to begin by Americanizing the Americans who don't seem to know what to do when the flag goes by, instead of beginning with the newly landed immigrant. Either a foreigner comes to our shores to learn the lesson our colors teach or for ulterior and selfish motives. Ignorance today is the greatest foe of the American legion. Eleven thousand names were on the slacker list which was printed in the Congressional Record. I am convinced this number could have been cut to 1,000 or less by education in American laws, constitution, ideals and history. Along the lines of Americanization, the American legion is the greatest single force for good that exists in this land of ours. It is part of the mission of the American legion to light the fires of patriotism and keep them burning in every town and village in this land. There should be a proper and dignified system of naturalization instead of the present haphazard way it is being done."

What the American legion auxiliary is doing and what it intends to do were touched upon by Miss Johnson, Mrs. Cudworth and Mrs. Wilson. Miss Johnson urged service men to "Honor the name of legionaire. Don't let the name of legionaire honor you."

Col. Greene said that the Organized Reserves are for the purpose of creating a duplication of the errors of unpreparedness which confronted the nation at the beginning of the last war.

GRAY HAIR DARK
It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color And Lustre
To Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.
Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.
Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. adv.

Proper Care Of Damaged Trees Will Save Money

Dr. W. E. Rogers Writes Second of Series of Articles on Tree Treatment

What to do with your trees after the ice storm is given further attention in the following article by Prof. Walter E. Rogers who has charge of the botany department of Lawrence college. In this article he tells what to do after limbs have been broken off. In a third article, Prof. Rogers will give advice on tree replacement.

The Post-Crescent was notified Monday morning by Congressman David G. Classon that he is sending 500 government pamphlets dealing with the care of trees damaged by the storm. Announcement of the plan of distribution will be made as soon as the pamphlets arrive.

Following is the second of a series of three articles by Dr. Rogers on the care of trees:

"A pitch in time saves nine" is a modern phrase which can be applied with much appropriateness to the trees in their present condition following the ice storm. A small amount of time and effort spent on careful repairs during the next few months will mean the saving of hundreds of trees and the prolonging of life of many more. Neglect at this time means the slow but certain destruction of many trees through the work of organisms causing decay.

The owner in surveying his trees which are heavily damaged should at once distinguish between those which he can afford to lose and those which, for any reason, he is unwilling to get along without. Those of the first class can be cut out, those of the second class should be given the services of someone who is thoroughly competent to undertake the repair work.

As indicated in the previous article not everyone is competent to undertake the work of repairing injuries to trees. The plant has a method of its own which it attempts to follow in healing an injury. The man who attempts to assist the plant in its recovery should know what this method is. If he works in harmony with the plant he may accomplish much. If he works at cross purposes he will accomplish nothing while the tree is in the process of healing itself. The essential thing just now is to get the trees into a condition that they may help themselves. The writer has seen in the vicinity evidences of the fact that the amateur "tree doctor" often undertakes in a bungling way a course of procedure that not only fails to assist the plant in overcoming an injury, but actually contributes to its further harm. And the professional "tree surgeon" is sometimes guilty of similar errors.

The tree owner who cannot employ a skillful expert to repair his damaged trees, may however, if he will equip himself with information on the subject, undertake some of the simpler remedial operations which will greatly increase the chances of saving his trees. Such measures if they cannot be put through before the sap flows this spring, may be deferred until summer when the plants are in full leaf and the stem parts are again less juicy. The sooner the better, but better late than a hasty job poorly done now.

AMPUTATION WOUNDS
In the first place the stubs left in severing broken limbs should be saved cleanly off. The cut should be practically parallel with the surface from which the limb grew and close to it. The edges of the wood and the layer of green bark should then be trimmed with a very sharp, heavy knife until they are smooth and immediately covered with commercial orange shellac. The whole wound may then be painted with a heavy lead paint, an asphalt paint, or coal tar. The last is to be preferred as the thinner paints require several applications. In all cases the surface should be recoated whenever cracks appear.

Most wounds, following this course of treatment will, in time, heal completely over. The whole purpose of the treatment is to enable the plant to close over the cut surfaces rapidly and thereby prevent the entrance of decay producing organisms. After the bark has healed over a wound which has been treated as indicated no further attention to it is necessary.

CAVITIES TREATMENT
The storm has revealed in some trees the presence of cavities not before suspected. It is practically useless for the amateur to undertake any treatment of these. If a competent repair man cannot be engaged some means of preventing the entrance of water into the opening should be devised and the cavity left to care for itself. To fill up a cavity with concrete or asphalt without giving it the proper preliminary treatment is simply throwing money away. The cavity is due to the work of rot organism and unless all the fine branches of its growth are removed no filling will be of any avail.

BRACING OF WEAK PARTS
The heavy load of ice has shown up the weakness of the forks and crotches of many trees. Some of these weak forks will need guying. Here again careful work is necessary.

The height at which the guy is placed depends upon the size, position and length of the limbs. In general it may be stated that the greater the strain the higher the support should be. For guys, chains are usually better than rods. A turnbuckle, while not necessary, makes easy the adjustment of the tension on the guy. The attachment should always be by means of hook bolts through the limbs, never by means of loops about the limbs. Bolt heads should bear large washers and should be countersunk in the bark. All wounds made in attaching guys should be tarred or kept heavily painted. Finally it should be kept in mind that a little repair work on the trees now may do away with the necessity of extensive repairs 15 years from now. In the next article the replacement of trees too heavily damaged to be worth repairing will be discussed.

Spring Colorings

PERWINKLE, now would you ever guess that it was a lavenderish blue, very much the shade of cornflowers.

WALLFLOWER is neither shy nor unattractive but quite spirited on the contrary, a deep burnt orange, full of zest.

RUBELLITE is its new Spring name but the same shade cavorted about last Winter as fuschia. Its pretty enough to carry over.

CINDER as popular as any for the frock of crepe, or hat or hosiery of silk is a light light gray, lighter than pearl.

TIGER LILY is a hue so rich that the henna family would claim it if they could, but it contains more of orange.

SERPENTINE upholds the Spring traditions for greens. It is a jade green, for sports togs unexcelled.

PRUNELLA, a light purple shade reigns this Spring where royal purple was formerly want too.

Spring Fabrics

KASHA, of it you have often called and its popularity has been increasing all the while. A twilled woolen with a shaggy brushed surface.

RATINE, not new but very popular, as are most "bath towel" textures. For tub frock the high shades are smart.

ROSHNARA CREPE is a heavy crepe which will be used very extensively this season for sports wear.

KREPE KNIT, one of the newest materials of season is a "new idea" in knit materials in a crepe effect.

CANTON CREPE, while not just "brand new" will be one of the most popular weaves of the season.

SATIN PRUNELLA, a wool material with a twill weave and satin finish, now being used so much in the fancy striped skirting.

GREPE ROMAIN isn't really a crepe at all: it's a chiffon, appearing fragile but really very strong.

TWEEDS are old friends of course, but this season's colors, blues and rose, are much lighter and so much the craze.

Spring's Color Card of Silks

An Inspiration for Smart Costumes

Many women, doubtless you too, will find inspiration for their Spring costumes not in fabric alone, nor in silhouette, but in color, so irresistible is its spell. Vivid, varied, gay, the season's new colors present such a wide range of tone that one can imagine clever designers doing "wonders" with them. These colors will serve you well as costume vassals. In harmony or contrast they will achieve effects of smart distinction.

RESTORE SERVICE ON GREEN BAY LINE

Rapid Progress is Being Made in Repairing Damage Caused by Storm

Kaukauna—The warm sun of the last few days was a great factor toward clearing the tracks of the Wisconsin Public Service Co. so that street car service to Green Bay could be resumed. The first car between here and Green Bay since a week ago last Wednesday put in its appearance in Kaukauna Sunday morning. Since then the cars have been running almost on schedule.

The effects of the sleet storm still are in evidence about the streets. Most of the trees and branches remain in piles where they fell. Occasionally a man is seen with a saw trimming off the broken limbs of the trees in his yard.

Telephone service in the city is rapidly being increased although there are still numerous telephones out of order.

Citizens of Kaukauna are boasting over the city's nickname "The Electric City" and are explaining to visitors why they deserve the name. Practically every city in the great storm belt suffered severely from loss of street and home lighting. Kaukauna's electric department was able to continue giving electric light and power almost uninterrupted and repaired what damage there was in short order.

Mertes says the Appleton barbers were approached and an effort was made to arrange a date for a game but by pleading that the members of the team were all too busy to roll, they were able to put off arrangements.

MONROE YOUTH BADLY INJURED BY MAD BULL

Monroe.—Lloyd Bleiler, 20 years old, son of Mrs. Clara Bleiler of this city, was brought to a hospital here in a critical condition as the result of being attacked by an enraged bull. While working on a farm near the city Bleiler was pursued by the bull and for a time managed to dodge the animal, which became violently enraged. SHE MUSTN'T SHOOT TO STOP PIANO MUSIC

Green Bay, Wis.—When the family downstairs operates a piano player late at night, has the family in the upstairs flat a constitutional right to fire a pistol and send a bullet through the floor?

Municipal Court Judge Monahan thinks not and Mrs. Nellie McConnell was put under a peace bond of $200. District Attorney Carl F. Young suggested that the upstairs tenant could present a complaint to the police or other authorities and that in his estimation a man had a right to give a party in his own home once in a while.

The court closed the debate with the declaration that "if a woman shoots as straight as most of them throw, I don't want to be around when it starts."

The WRONG FACE

By ISABEL OSTRANDER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

FAY TUDOR, wealthy orphan, suffers a nervous breakdown in France after learning of the death in battle of her brother, Wilbur. She returns to the Tudor estate in Sandy Cove, and is met by her aunt, an attractive widow.

MRS. CLARA TUDOR, and the latter's daughter,

LAUREL. The summer colony is frightened by the reported presence of a "wild man" whom Fay believes she has seen peering in the windows of the Tudor house. SHERIFF HULSE and his friend, SERGEANT JOHN BARRY, a New York detective, investigate. Fay is attracted by the personality of CAPTAIN WARREN, her brother's friend, who was with Wilbur when he died. On the night of Mrs. Tudor's dance.

KENNETH CLAYTON, wealthy philanthropist, who is thought to be in love with Mrs. Tudor, proposes to Fay. She rejects him. After the dance, and before retiring, Laurel confesses to Fay that she is in love with HARRY CADMUS, an old love of Fay's but for whom she has long ceased to care. Fay congratulates Laurel and wishes her happiness. The girls sleep in the same room. In the morning, Laurel is found dead from asphyxiation and murder is suspected. Fay breaks the news to her Aunt Clara. Clayton offers his assistance to Fay and together they overhear the coroner confirm the murder theory and express wonder at Fay's escape.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

In the meantime Sergeant Barry engaged Martha, the cook, in conversation.

"Had she any enemies here in Sandy Cove?" the coroner asked. "A girl as pretty and lively and fascinating as she was, would be apt to arouse jealousy."

"Jealousy, is it? I guess there's plenty that would like to have stood in her shoes with the young man that have been hanging around here, especially that whippersnapper lieutenant, but none would be soiling their dainty hands with murder. Not that a hundred coroners could make me believe there's been foul play. Wasn't I the first to find her, and didn't she look as though she'd just dropped off in her sleep? There's the lieutenant now."

A young man had leaped the hedge which separated the Tudor place from the Country Club golf grounds and was striding hatless across the lawn. His face was agitated, and his mild round eyes seemed protruding from their sockets as he approached the veranda.

"Martha, is it true! Where is Mrs. Tudor? Can I see her?"

"She's with Mr. Clayton now, sir, but it's true enough if you mean that Miss Laurel is dead."

"Dead! It can't be! Why, only last night she gave me her word that the future we had planned

He drew his hand across his eyes, and Sergeant Barry took his arm and led him off the porch.

"Lieutenant Cadmus, I don't want to force your confidence, but the sheriff and coroner will have some very serious questions to ask you at the autopsy, and it may be possible that I can save you from annoyance if you will be perfectly frank with me."

"Autopsy? Coroner?" Lieutenant Cadmus exclaimed. "Good God, was there anything suspicious about her death? We heard—we understood—that it was heart disease, that she died in her sleep."

"Barry explained calmly, but the quick glance at his companion revealed a peculiar expression upon the young officer's face."

"And Fay was all right herself? She didn't even know that anything had happened to her cousin?" The lieutenant halted in the path. "It's mighty queer, isn't it, sergeant?"

"I take it from what you said just now, lieutenant, that you understand the existence of some sort of understanding between you and Miss Laurel. Were you and the young lady engaged to be married?"

"It wasn't announced, sergeant, and no one else knew, but there is no reason now for me to keep silent. I have been in love with Miss Tudor for a long time, but she only consented to our engagement last night. In fact, we both felt it was our duty to wait."

He broke off in evident confusion, and the detective eyed him sharply.

"Why? Was there a previous affair on Miss Laurel's part?"

"Not on her's, sergeant, but on mine." The lieutenant paused, and added somewhat hesitantly: "As a matter of fact, an understanding of a sort had existed between myself and my cousin, Fay Tudor, but it was all off two years ago, before she went to France."

The words came haltingly, as though he were aware of their sudden significance. Barry seized his opportunity.

"Then why did you consider it necessary to wait? If you were quite sure that the affair was over what possible objection could you expect from Miss Fay to your engagement to her cousin?"

"Well, you saw, our engagement was not formal. She took her self off to France, and then her cousin and I found that we cared for each other, but Miss Laurel wouldn't give me her promise until Fay had returned and we knew how she felt about it."

"Did you know that Miss Laurel intended to confide in her cousin last night?" Barry asked casually. "Miss Fay told me not an hour ago that you had asked her cousin to be your wife."

"I didn't know of course," the lieutenant disclaimed hurriedly. "But it couldn't have made any difference. Fay hasn't given a thought to me in ages; that old affair is as dead as door nails. I—I'm afraid I can't tell you any more, sergeant. I can't think of a possible reason why any one should have taken Laurel's life."

As they approached the house once more they saw Fay Tudor's slender, black-gowned figure outlined in bold relief against a flowering shrub on the lawn. She was in evidently earnest conversation with a tall-rugged faced man on crutches. A portion of her sentence reached their ears.

"I cannot have you postpone this experiment which means so much to you."

"The experiment can wait. Whether or you wish it or not, Miss Tudor, I shall be near in case of need."

As they rounded the corner of the house Barry turned inquiring eyes on Lieutenant Cadmus.

"Never saw the chap before."

"That stout little man with him," continued Barry, "with the bushy white hair and side whiskers is Professor Semyonov, the greatest living authority on chemistry. We've called him in more than once on big cases in town, and his analysis is always infallible."

They reached the front entrance just as Mrs. Tudor, supported by Kenneth Clayton, confronted the coroner and his companion.

"What is it?" she asked in a trembling voice. "What have you come to tell me?"

"That Miss Laurel Tudor came to her death by means of carbon monoxide poisoning. Asphyxiation is plainly indicated. Mrs. Tudor, it is murder."

CHAPTER VII

As the dread word fell from the coroner's lips in grave accents Mrs. Tudor uttered a low moaning cry.

"Oh, take me away!" moaned Mrs. Tudor. "I cannot believe that any one would have done so frightful a thing to my poor little daughter!"

She tottered within, leaning heavily on Clayton's arm, and the others turned and looked at one another.

Lieutenant Cadmus was the first to speak.

"What can it mean?" he demanded

"Carbon monoxide is also known as carbonic oxide," the coroner put in, jealous of the professor's display of knowledge.

"Precisely, my friend," the latter responded dryly. "It generates itself in stoves or furnaces or in illuminating gas. Every automobile generates it in greater or less quantity, according to the amount of care it receives."

"Every automobile!" Barry repeated swiftly.

CURZON THE HAUGHTY CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Special to The Post-Crescent

London—Marquis Curzon of Kedleston, British foreign minister, celebrates his sixty-third birthday today, and receives the congratulations of the Diplomatic corps.

Curzon was trained to statecraft almost from the cradle and is probably England's greatest expert on foreign affairs, especially as regards the East. Of haughty and pompous bearing, he is not particularly popular from the personal standpoint, but is widely respected and trusted. His outward manner was aptly hit off by an old schoolfellow many years ago in an irreverent couplet, which is still famous:

"My name is George Nathaniel Curzon I am a most superior person, My hair is sleek, smooth is my cheek, I dine at Blenheim once a week."

(Blenheim Palace, the home of the dukes of Marlborough, being the last word in princely mansions.)

OH, TAKE ME AWAY, MOANED MRS. TUDOR.

hearsely. The professor shrugged his shoulders.

"I am not a criminologist," he observed. Then with a continental bow, he turned toward Sergeant Barry.

"I have, however, had the honor of assisting our young friend here on more than one noted case in New York, and I have no doubt that he will be successful in overcoming the difficulties connected with this affair. The part of it which seems most inexplicable to me is that the other young lady who shared the room with the victim was not killed also; that she strolled over the slightest ill effect."

"It is possible, professor, that the carbon monoxide gas might not have been injected into the atmosphere of the room itself but administered to Miss Tudor directly by means of some such thing as an ether cone pressed down tightly over her face?"

It was Barry who spoke. The other nodded.

"Quite possible; in fact, the only way, if the windows had been left open all night, as they were found in the morning. There was, I understand, no trace of gas discernible in the air when the maid discovered the body."

"Not a bit," the sheriff intervened. "But suppose somebody went in and closed all those windows in the night and stuffed rags around so as to make the room airtight, and then opened the windows wide again as soon as they'd done their work? It was blowing a gale all night long; would there be any odor of gas after the room had been aired for several hours?"

"No," Professor Semyonov admitted. "But you forget, my dear sir, that the other lady slept undisturbed and unharmed through it all."

"Humph!"

There was a sly significance in the shrewd glance which made Barry glance sharply at him before he turned once more to the professor.

"Just what is carbon monoxide?" he asked. "How is it made or generated, and how obtainable by any one who is not a chemist?"

"Carbon monoxide, roughly speaking, is a gas composed of carbon and oxygen," Professor Semyonov explained. "You may observe it occasionally burning with a pale blue flame in fireplaces or stoves."

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Stanislaus Zbyszko went to the mat once too often. The veteran of the wrestling game, nearing the age of 50 years, was thrown by Strangler Lewis Friday night and lost the world's championship. Zbyszko had planned to wrestle only two or three more times and then retire with the title but the mighty headlocks of Lewis changed his well laid plans.

The old warrior will never be a contender again and it would not be surprising if other heavyweights found him easy to handle. Zbyszko had been thrown but once before in his entire career, Frank Kotch being the man to pin his shoulders to the mat. Youth is slipping away from Zbyszko and after being defeated by Lewis he will never again have his old confidence. Zbyszko is a grand old man and a credit to the wrestling game. Many fans will be sorry he is unable to retire with the crown.

New stars flash across the boxing firmament and then fade away and many times they fade soon after the flash. Young mit wielders put up a great fight against top-notchers who better they have a half hearted and the youngsters are berated as coming champs. In their next battle they are usually beaten and set back with the third and fourth raters. Sid Barbarian of Detroit gave Rocky Kansas a hard scrap a few weeks ago and the critics said he was the man who would take the lightweight title away from Benny Leonard. He was matched with Pinky Mitchell and the boys scammed in Milwaukee Thursday night. Barbarian received a nice trimming. We probably will hear very little more of Mr. Barbarian.

The eyes of the boxing fans of the world will be turned toward New York City next Monday night when Tommy Gibbons and Harry Greb meet in a 15-round bout to a decision. Interest is keen in the affair for the winner probably will be the next opponent of Jack Dempsey. The men have met twice before and each is credited with a victory. These bouts, however, were staged before Gibbons hit the stride he is now going and before he developed the knockout punch that has sent more than 20 men to the canvas in the last 18 months. Gibbons rules a 10 to 6 favorite over Greb for the affair, his physical advantages—size, weight and punching power—making him the favorite among the sharp shooters.

Will Babe Ruth break his home-run record in 1922? Critics of the diamond game do not believe there is a chance in the world for him to break his mark of 59 home runs this season. He will suffer the handicap of being out of 25 games because of his suspension. In those 25 games it is reasonable to suppose he would make from 7 to 10 homers. Starting with such a handicap in an effort to better a mark of 59 is some task. In addition Ruth will be hampered by five weeks of actual play while Ruth will be off form due to his inactivity. In all probability it will be June 1 before the Bambino hits his stride.

Baseball fans over the country are beginning to ask what the admission charge will be at the ball parks this season. Baseball players' salaries have been cut, traveling expenses are lower and wages in all lines have been reduced. If the admission to ball parks this year remains at last season's level an awful squawk will go up from the fans in all parts of the country.

Gibson Wise Manager

BILLY GIBSON

Billy Gibson, who directs the destinies of Champion Benny Leonard, is one of the wisest managers in the fight game.

Gibson, by excellent judgment in handling the affairs of Leonard, getting a top-notch price for every bout, has made a fortune for the fighter and himself.

Gibson took Leonard long before he reached the championship class. He saw great possibilities in him, however, brought him along slowly and made a champion out of him.

Gibson picked on Champion Freddy Welsh at a time when Welsh was slipping rapidly. For a year prior to the bout with Welsh, promoters had tried to match Leonard and the champion. The dates selected for such bouts, it so happened, never suited Gibson. They always seemed to interfere with some other bout that Gibson had planned.

As a matter of fact Gibson was really biding his time, waiting for the logical spot to arrange the match that carried with it the championship.

Johnny Kilbane's fight with Weiss decided Gibson. Kilbane gave Welsh a stiff battle. Welsh's showing convinced Gibson that Leonard was his master. He arranged the bout, Leonard knocked Welsh out in the ninth round, winning the championship.

JACK WILLING TO WAIVE COLOR LINE

New York—Jack Dempsey finally has reached the stage where even a match with Harry Wills appeals to him. The champion must have action of some kind if he is to strengthen his bank account so he has forgotten all about the color line and is ready to accept an offer for the much-discussed match.

The color line never did make any difference to a fighter who wanted to fight. It has never been anything but a handy excuse for sidestepping tough opponents. As long as Dempsey had Carpenter and other soft marks in sight he talked eloquently on race prejudice and the welfare of boxing, but now that he needs the money and Wills appears to be the only medium by which he can get it, the color line has faded out of the picture.

Granting that Wills still is capable of getting into condition to do his best work, there still is no reason to think that he can beat Dempsey. Harry is dangerous only when he is allowed to hold with the left hand and hit with the right. Boxing Dempsey for the championship would not be permitted to violate the rules in that fashion.

JOBLESS, AGED TRIPOLI MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

WRESTLING CARD WILL BE STAGED HERE ON FRIDAY

Hill to Meet Herman Hackenschmidt of Nebraska in Main Event of Show

George Hill of Appleton will meet Herman Hackenschmidt, heavyweight grappler of Beaver City, Neb., in the main event of a wrestling show to be staged in Armory G Friday night by the Mid-West Athletic club. Three fast preliminaries will be arranged by Elmer Johnston, matchmaker for the club.

Hackenschmidt tips the beam at 195 pounds and is one of the fastest men in the heavyweight division. He is rangy and strong and is said to apply holds with lightning like speed. The Nebraska man has been winning his matches with regularity and is rapidly coming to the front as one of the best heavyweights in the country. He is called the "Wonder-Man" in his native state and is sure to give Hill a tussle.

Hill has been going through light workouts every day since his match with Mahmud a month ago and is in shape to settle down to the hard training grind. The Appleton man will work at full speed this week and intends to be in top condition when he comes out of his corner to meet Hackenschmidt Friday night.

A sandhouse in the Ashland division yard, of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad caught fire about noon Sunday and the fire alarm was sounded. Firemen formed a bucket brigade and easily extinguished the blaze. Very little damage was done.

Spring Training Gossip

By Billy Evans

When the teams go south for spring training they have two objects in mind, the conditioning of the veterans who have proved their worth and the trying of the recruits.

Since the fans are familiar with the veterans and their style of play not much space is given to their work on the training trips. The war correspondents deal almost entirely with the recruits.

It is in the spring that the young pitchers are referred to as second Johnson and Alexanders that the outfielders are compared with Speaker, Cobb and Roush, that the infielders are likened unto Hornsby or Collins, that the catchers are pronounced second Schalks, O'Neills or Killifers.

The major league recruits each year are the cream of the baseball talent. The phenoms from every section of the country are gathered for a tryout. Every now and then some recruit makes good from the very start, like Walter Johnson or Frankie Frisch.

The careers of such players always stand out in the eyes of the magnates. Therefore when some well-known pitcher sends word that a certain player is the sensation of his particular neck of the woods the magnates are usually willing to gamble.

Usually these phenoms find the jump from the sticks to the big show quite a distance. A majority of them soon fall by the wayside. The small town sluggers discover big league pitching is considerably different to hit. The small town pitchers find the big league hitters are much harder to fool.

The average major league career of the player is short lived. Fewer than six years would be a fairly conservative estimate. If the standard of big league ball is continued there must be constant development of players.

The refusal of the minors to agree on the draft has blocked the progress of a great many players. With the field curtailed the majors this year found it necessary to look over the college and semi-pro fields much more carefully.

This year almost twice as many comparatively unknowns are being taken south as in any previous year. Practically every club has a half dozen players little known except for the deeds they have performed in the section in which they live.

It is a big jump to the majors and fadom doesn't want to enthrone too much over the spring reports relative to the crop of recruits.

It is a rarity for some player to make good from the very start, as did Walter Johnson. He came from Weiser, Idaho, and was the talk of the American League inside of a week. There is always a chance for such a happening, however, and the gamble is worth it.

Will the 1922 crop of recruits produce any Walter Johnson? Possibly, but not probably.

There are runners on second and third, nobody out and the infield is drawn in for a play at the plate. The batsman hits a hard grounder at the

WHY WE MUST TELL YOU THE WHOLE TRUTH ABOUT OUR USED CARS

If a house is built to last 50 years and is 5 years old, you can hardly buy it at 10% under the market price of similar new houses.

But an automobile that is built for 50,000 miles, and that has gone but 5,000 miles, can be bought for a great deal under 10% off the price of a new car.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE

The used cars which we offer were received by us from our customers in this community. We accepted them as cash in part payment for new cars, and so have in effect, purchased them with our own money. We insist on knowing their real condition before we invest in them.

When we receive these cars we go over them thoroughly in our shops and still more fully determine their exact condition. Many of the cars we offer are completely overhauled, and worn parts replaced with new wherever necessary.
